GETTING THE DROP ON MOSQUITOES

Nothing takes the fun out of an evening barbecue outdoors like a bunch of bloodthirsty mosquitoes. In addition to inflicting a painful bite, mosquitoes can transmit diseases. Because mosquitoes require water to breed, here are some practical ways to eliminate water sources in your yard:

- Drill holes in the bottom (not the sides) of any garbage or recycling containers stored outdoors to prevent water from accumulating in the bottom.
- Keep gutters clean and unclogged.
- Keep swimming pools cleaned and chlorinated, even when not in use.
- Look for areas in the landscape that are not draining well.
- Aerate ornamental water features to keep water moving and discourage mosquitoes from laying eggs.
- Dump anything that holds water, such as birdbaths, wading pools and outdoor pottery, twice per week if it has rained.

Follow these simple practices and stay safe and comfortable in your yard this year!
